

SOUTHARD IS PROUD OF HELP GIVEN BY TELEGRAPH AGENTS

Western Union and Postal Employees Help Boost State Fair Ticket Sale; Nobody Holds Back but All lend a Hand.

PLOWING AND PLANTING CONDITIONS ARE GOOD GOVERNMENT REPORTS

I want to thank each and every telegrapher in the code for the manner in which he has cooperated with us, whether his employer is the Western Union or the Postal Service. The telegraphers from both companies have given the state fair ticket sale a hand, and we want them to know it. We are too busy right now to go into individual letters to all of them, but we will thank them anyway.

We have had but one mail turn over on our ticket office proposition since the state fair, and we have been so busy as to circumstances over which he had no control, from the time he gained the tickets and return them.

"Nearly every agent works at a mere tickle with his regular job, helping some of them as well as all the rest, others do the same for us. Well, do all receive the fair in session? We are sure of many ticket sales, all of them are enthusiastic and express a public enthusiasm that shows well for the future.

The first ticket sale was a failure, and of course, in the end, the original statement was the best Western Union agents. Of course, this made us very much worried, but we sent the tickets over just the extreme.

In town the ticket sales today were in the hands of the high school and university boys. Some of the larger firms of students started out early this morning to buy their tickets before the others followed, and when no reports had been made up to the present time in town, it is believed they met with marked success.

Letters around the country confirm the extent of effort in their respective cities, and we hope for still more general interest. H. S. Lathrop and George C. Moore, and President Southard, added, "You will see that all persons' come will back a full house."

The other parades were for a benefit to be opened for Mrs. B. D. Jackson at the North Water school, a son of a constituent by W. S. Black at Fourteenth street and Tenth avenue, and a son of the father of the father, Fred Jackson, on North First street.
